

DEATH LIST OF A DAY.

Mrs. Alice Kellogg Tyler.

Mrs. Alice Kellogg Tyler, the well-known artist, died late Wednesday night at Chicago. She was reputed to be the foremost woman artist in the West and was the only Western woman honored with a membership in the Society of American Artists.

Mrs. Kellogg was the first President of the old Palette Club and won recognition abroad. She was one of the first pupils at the Art Institute. Subsequently she became an instructor there and in 1887 she went to Paris, where she studied for two years, attracting much attention. Many of her Summers she spent in sketching tours through Holland, Germany and Switzerland. In 1889 she exhibited in the Salon a life size oil portrait of her sister Gertrude.

At the World's Fair Mrs. Kellogg was one of fifteen Western women—eight of whom were Chicagoans—who were given space in the Fine Arts Building. Her picture was a large oil painting, entitled "Mother and Child." At one of the latest exhibitions of the Chicago Artists' Association she won the Yerkes prize of $300. Her last exhibition was at the water color exhibit at the Art Institute last Spring, when she entered a pastel portrait of Dr. Debey.

Miss Sarah W. Thorne.

Miss Sarah W. Thorne, for more than fifty years connected with the charitable work of St. Paul's Chapel, died yesterday at her home, at 127 West Fifteenth Street. She was in her eighty-ninth year. Entering the work of the parish in 1846, Miss Thorne continued her activity until about three years ago, when her age made her retirement necessary. She had a room in the mission house in Church Street, and there conducted mothers' meetings and taught Bible classes. She also directed the distribution of clothing and visited the poor in their homes. Miss Thorne was a granddaughter of Major Richard Thorne, who was imprisoned in this city during the Revolution. Her maternal grandfather, Gabriel Wisner of Orange County, N. J., was killed during the Revolutionary War, and her greatgrandfather, Henry Wisner, voted in the Continental Congress for the Declaration of Independence, although he was absent on the day of the signing. Miss Thorne was the last member of her immediate family, but leaves relatives of collateral branches in this city and Newark.

Dr. Woolsey Hopkins.

Dr. Woolsey Hopkins, assistant surgeon at the Manhattan Eye and Ear Hospital, died last evening at the Presbyterian Hospital from pneumonia.

Dr. Hopkins was born thirty-two years ago at Alexandria, Va. He was graduated from the College of Physicians and Surgeons in the class of '90 and made a specialty of ear troubles. He was a member of the St. Nicholas and New York Athletic Clubs, besides several medical societies.

In 1892 Dr. Hopkins married Miss Helen Birdsall, who, with two children, survives him.

George Skinner.

George Skinner, who died on Wednesday of pneumonia at his residence, 234 East One Hundred and Twelfth Street this city, had been prominently identified with Masonic interests for more than fifty years. For the past sixteen years he had been Grand Pursuivant of the Grand Lodge. Mr. Skinner was a member of Kane Lodge, No. 454; Jerusalem Chapter, No. 8; Ocean Lodge, No. 156; Adelpic Council, No. 7, and Cour de Lion Commandery, No. 23.

Obituary Notes.

Mrs. CECILIA KEMP, widow of Alfred F. Kemp and a daughter of the late William Neilson, died Wednesday at New Brighton, S. I. Mrs. Kemp was in her eightieth year. She leaves two sisters.

CHANDLER H. WARD, a well-known railroad man, died last night at his home, in Paterson, N. J. He was sixty-four years old. He had been connected for many years with the Erie Railroad. Mr. Ward was prominent in the Masonic fraternity. He leaves a son and two daughters.

M. H. PETERS, for twenty years General Agent in Elmira for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad Company, died in that city at 10 o'clock last night of Bright's disease. He was for ten years a member of the Board of Managers of the Elmira Reformatory, and during that time was Treasurer of the institution.

Dr. GUSTAVE MOZART STOECKEL, a son of Gustave J. Stoeckel, Emeritus Professor of Music at Yale, died at his home, in Norfolk, Conn., yesterday, aged fifty-one years. Dr. Stoeckel was graduated from Yale in 1871, and took his degree as a Doctor of Medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, in this city. Subsequently he took degrees from the University of Vienna and the University of Paris. After his return from Europe he practiced medicine here.

ABRAM NELLIS, aged eighty years, died suddenly on Wednesday at Nelliston, Montgomery County, N. Y., from heart disease. Mr. Nellis, after being graduated from Union College, Schenectady, was employed in the Post Office here. Later he read law with Gen. Sanford. During the gold excitement in the forties he made two successful trips to California. He founded Nelliston in 1860, and when the village was incorporated it was named in his honor. He was the pioneer of the bitter fight a quarter of a century ago which made free the bridge at Fort Plain, and which ultimately practically freed all bridges over the Mohawk. He had been a prominent Republican since the formation of that party.
