Arkansas postcard past

By Ray Hanley

CONWAY, circa 1910 Pictured was the main building of Central College, formed by the Arkansas Baptist Convention in 1892 as a school for women. The school survived until 1947. The campus was acquired by the Missionary Baptist Association and reopened as Central Baptist College in 1952. One of three colleges still operating in Conway, the school's website claims a 2019 enrollment of some 700 students.
